CLIMATE

Melbourne enjoys a temperate climate with four distinct seasons in the year - spring, summer, winter and autumn. Below is a guide to the average daily temperatures:

Spring	September - November	12 - 22 degrees
Summer	December to February	28 - 32 degrees
Autumn	March to May	12 - 20 degrees
Winter	June to August	10 - 15 degrees

Melbourne does not have a specific wet season - it can rain at any time of the year. Sports and other outdoor activities are possible at all times of the year.

LANGUAGE

Although English is the official language, a host of other languages are spoken in Australia. As one of the most culturally diverse countries in the world, many Australians are naturally fluent in other languages. More than 2.4 million Australians speak a language other than English at home. Within the education and training system, about 15 per cent of those of working age studying for an educational qualification have English as a second language. More than 800,000 Australians speak a European Union language, apart from English, in the home. Another 800,000 Australians speak an Asian language in the home.

In Australia not only is there the opportunity to improve your English through specialist study in an English-speaking environment, but all sectors of Australian education and training provide tuition in many other languages as well.

English, as it is spoken in Australia, is very easily understood by nearly all people from other English-speaking nations. While there are some minor differences in accent between the cities and country areas, the difference is much less than you will find in America, Britain and Canada where French is also spoken. As you improve your English in Australia you will learn some of our slang, and have much fun explaining the meanings to your friends and relatives at home.

MULTICULTURALISM

More than 100 ethnic groups are represented in Australia, making Australia one of the most culturally diverse countries in the world. Australia's dynamic multiculturalism can be attributed to its unique combination of Indigenous cultures, early European settlement and immigration from all parts of the world.

Australians value the wealth of cultural diversity and social sophistication that international students bring to our campuses and our communities. We take great care in looking after international students and helping them to adjust to the Australian way of life. International students also gain great benefits from their education in Australia and make lifelong friendships.

The Imperial College of Australia

CURRENCY, BANKS AND HOURS

Australian currency is the only legal tender in Australia. When you first arrive, money from other countries can be changed at the exchange facilities located at international airports, banks and major hotels. Traveller's cheques are easier to use if already in Australian dollars, however, banks will cash traveller's cheques in virtually any currency. Major hotels and some shops, depending on individual store policy, will also cash traveller's cheques.

Australia uses a dollars and cents system of decimal currency with 100 cents in a dollar. The bank notes in use are $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100. Coins used are the silver coloured 5 cent, 10 cent, 20 cent and 50 cent and the gold coloured $1 and $2 coins.

It is a good idea to set up an Australian bank account. You will need to provide your visa and evidence of residency. Banking services in Australia are extremely competitive. Over 20 local and numerous international banking groups are represented in Australia.

All major banks have a branch in cities and regional centres. Most shopping centres have Automatic Teller Machines (ATM) facilities. These machines can be used for deposits and, in many instances, withdrawals 24 hours a day.

Many department stores, supermarkets and specialist shops have electronic transfer terminals (EFTPOS) where cash withdrawals can also be made in addition to purchasing goods.

Normal Bank Trading Hours

9.30 am – 4.00 pm Monday to Thursday

9.30 am – 5.00 pm Friday

Some banks are open Saturday mornings

- ANZ Bank
- Bank of Melbourne
- CitiBank
- Commonwealth Bank
- National Australia Bank

HEALTH CARE

Australia has a very good health care system. All Australians pay a Medicare levy (additional tax) to fund the public health system and ensure everyone gets access to public system doctors, hospitals and other health care services. People who pay extra into a private health insurance fund receive certain privileges when they use private health care services. As well as the usual services available in just about any Australian suburb or town, most Australian institutions also provide special health care services and advice for students.

International students studying in Australia are required to have Overseas Student Health Cover (OSHC) for the duration of their student visa, which will be arranged for students on their behalf by Education Access Australia prior to arrival in Australia.

ELECTRICITY

The electrical current in Australia is 240/250 volts AC, 50 cycles. The Australian three-pin plug is extremely safe. Adaptors are usually required for most foreign appliances. A transformer may be required if you bring an appliance from overseas that operates on a different voltage.

ACCOMMODATION

Trams

There are 29 tram routes that take commuters from the city to various parts of Melbourne.

The City Circle Tram is a free tourist city tram circling Melbourne Central Business District (CBD), leaving from a central stop every 10 minutes. The complete journey takes about 30 minutes. For more information, read the "City Circle Tram" brochure by Public Transport Victoria. There is also a free tram zone within the Melbourne CBD.

Trains

Melbourne's main train station is Flinders Street Station, located on the corner of Flinders and Swanston Street in the city. The City has an underground rail link, known as the 'City Loop' that circulates around the CBD. The City Loop stations are Flinders Street, Southern Cross, Flagstaff, Melbourne Central and Parliament. Not all trains travel via the City Loop.

The redeveloped Southern Cross Station on Spencer Street is the connecting station between Melbourne and Regional Victorian train. V/Line provides rail services to Geelong in the Southwest, Ballarat in the west, Bendigo, Swan Hill and Echuca in the north, Seymour and Wodonga in the northeast and Traralgon and Sale in the east.

Buses and Coaches

There are over 300 public and private bus routes across Melbourne servicing cross-suburban travel, CBD trips for commuters, connections to train stations, major shopping centres, and leisure and sporting venues. V/Line Coach provides a bus network linking most cities and towns for the remainder of regional Victoria.

Taxis

In Melbourne there are many taxi companies to choose from. You can hail a taxi in the street if the taxi sign on its roof is illuminated; however small orange lights indicate the taxi is not for hire. Or you can make a telephone booking for a taxi to ensure service when you need it. Taxi cabs are also available throughout regional Victoria.

The main Taxi services in Melbourne are:

- Arrow Taxis 13 22 11
- Silver Top Taxi Services 131 008
- 13 CABS 13 2227

PHONES, INTERNET, MAIL

Mail Services

Australia Post runs the postal system in Australia. Post offices are located throughout Victoria and can be found in shopping centers and major shopping malls.

Post offices supply a selection of envelopes, packaging materials, stamps, writing stationary and greeting cards. Also available are a variety of small gifts and Australian coin releases. You are also able to make bill payments such as telephone, gas, electricity and other items like insurance and parking fines.

Telephone directories, postage charge guides and postcode (zip code) booklets are available on request (they are free).

The Imperial College of Australia

For further information on the location of postal offices throughout Victoria, visit the Australia Post website. (www.auspost.com.au)

Post Codes

Each Australian suburb and town is identified by a four digit post code. Victorian post codes begin with the number 3. It is important to use postcodes in Australian mailing addresses. Visit the Australian Post website to find out more about post codes.

Receiving and Sending Mail

The postal service operates weekdays between 9:00am and 5:00pm. Mail is delivered to your residential letterbox once a day from Monday to Friday. Alternatively, a post office box can be rented from the post office.

Australian mail is often sent by air due to the distances between capital cities. Mail can be delivered by the next day in any capital city using Express Post and priority paid delivery services. These services guarantee delivery within the quoted time frame.

Currently, a standard letter or card can be mailed within Australia for 65 cents.$1

Overseas mail can be sent via air or by surface transport. Postage costs are based on weight and the method of transportation.

- Airmail is traditionally the most expensive and takes on average 4-7 days to various overseas locations.
- surface-air lifted (SAF) is an alternative to airmail. It is slightly cheaper and takes around 10-17 days.
- Surface mail is the cheapest form of postage. Sea freight can take up to 3 months.

Telephone and Internet Services

Telstra and Optus Communications are Australia's major telecommunications firms supplying telephone, mobile and internet services. However, there are many other providers who supply these products and services.

Telephone

Local calls can be made at fixed cost (anywhere between 15 cents-25 cents) they are not charged per minute.

There are many companies that offer competitive prices for local, national and international calls, so it pays to shop around.

Long-distance calls inside Australia are usually charged per minute. Calls made at times of the day that are considered off peak and over the weekends are often cheaper. To make a long distance call inside Australia, dial: area code + local number.

International calls are usually charged per minute. Numerous call plans are available from all services providers, so choose one that best suits your needs. To make an international telephone call, dial: 0011 + country code + area code + local number.

Finding a phone number and address

The White pages are a list of residential, government and commercial phone numbers and addresses, categorised alphabetically.

The Yellow pages are a list of business phone numbers and addresses, categorized by the service they provide.

The Imperial College of Australia

Both directories are sent free of charge to every household in Victoria. Each has their own website for online access to telephone numbers around Australia.

To find a number using your telephone, here is a list of the main telephone directory assistance numbers:

Local/National directory Assistance	1223 or 12455
International Directory Assistance	1225
Call Connect (operator assistance to find and connect to a number)	12 456
Reverse charge (collect call)	1800 738 3773

Mobile Phone Services

There are a number of mobile phone service providers offering a selection of different phones and packages for different levels of use. Pre-paid mobile phone accounts are often a cheaper option. The majority of international mobile phones will not work in Australia.

You can hire a mobile phone for a short period of time from a number of stores throughout Melbourne Business District and major shopping centers.

Internet

There are a number of companies that provide internet access with plans to suit different types of users. Broadband access has become very popular, while wireless connectivity is also available in some parts of Melbourne.

To install additional telephone lines(s) for internet access, contact Telstra or Optus.

If you live in a rented property you will need to contact your real estate agent to obtain permission from the landlord prior to installation.

Some telecommunication companies offer packages that bundle Internet services with mobile and landline services.

Find out more about internet providers in the Yellow Pages.
